

DATA MATTERS

Making the Most of Publicly-Funded Research Data

15 July 2010

Rangimarie Rooms, Te Papa, Cable St, Wellington

PROGRAMME

08.30am	Coffee and tea available
09.00am	Welcome from facilitator: Julian Carver
09.15am	Lesley Middleton, Acting CE, Ministry of Research, Science and Technology The Science Data Landscape
09.30am	Robert Gibb, Landcare Research Lifting the Data Management Horizon
10.00am	Penny Carnaby, CE, National Library KRIS, data harvesting and the Shared Repository
10.20am	Morning tea
10.50am	Andrew Treloar, Director of Technology The Australian National Data Service
11.20am	Group problem-solving session
12.00pm	Lunch
12.30pm Panel discussion	Brian Flaherty, Assistant University Librarian, University of Auckland Robin Olds, Chief Executive, Health Research Council Jochen Schmidt, Chief Scientist, Environmental Information, NIWA Andrew Treloar, Director of Technology, Australian National Data Service
1.10pm	Isabella Cawthorn – Ministry of Research, Science and Technology The Environmental Data Management Policy Statement Brent Wood – National Institute of Water and Atmospheric Research (NIWA) Bay of Islands Portal
1.40pm	Wendy Lawson – University of Canterbury Adding value to government data: the partnership model of the GeoHealth Lab
1.50pm	Choosing topics for afternoon workshops
2.00pm	Mark Gahegan – University of Auckland When will it all stop? The deluge of data and knowledge, and its consequences for data infrastructure
2.20pm	Gerard Cotterell & Martin von Randow – University of Auckland COMPASS: Centre of Methods and Policy Application in the Social Sciences
2.40pm	Afternoon tea
3.10pm	Group problem-solving session
4.40pm	Wrap up
5.00pm	Drinks and networking